- Establish and support a Return to Work Plan immediately following a workplace injury or illness with the objective of ensuring the best practical levels of recovery for the employee;
- Engage in consultation with the employee, and where necessary, his/her representative, on a return to work program, that achieves a return to work as soon as possible;
- Ensure that participation in a rehabilitation program does not prejudice the employee;
- Whenever possible, arrange suitable duties internally, having regard for the medical advice and the injured employee's restrictions;
- Facilitate injury management with the goal of returning the employee to pre-injury duties where practicable;
- Support the injury management process and recognise that success relies in the active participation of co-operation of the injured employee
